

State and County Juvenile Justice Services – 2010

Juvenile Justice Snapshot

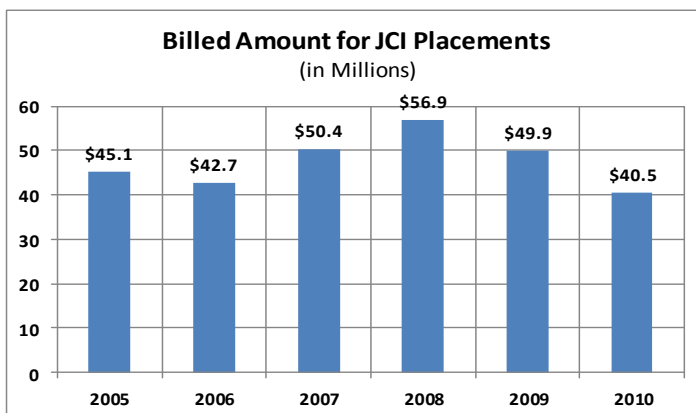

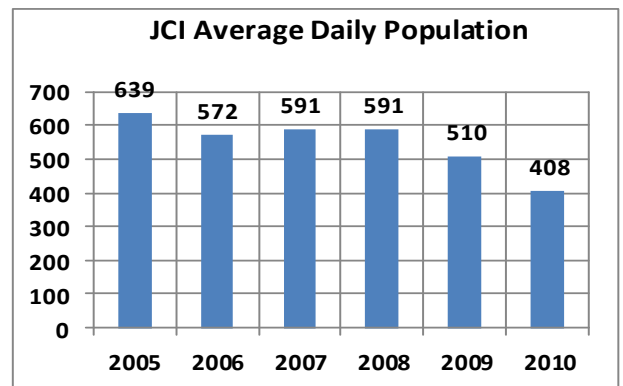

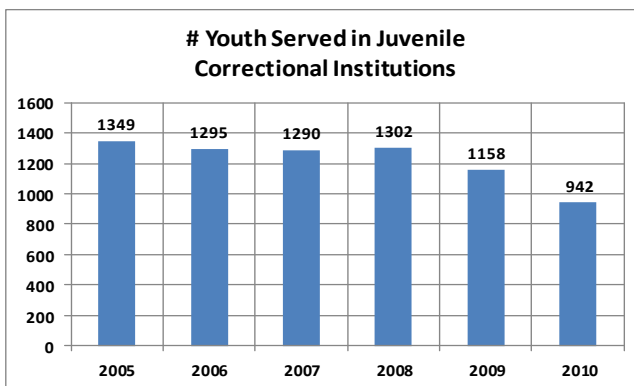

Division of Juvenile Corrections

WCCF Juvenile Justice Snapshot

Total Youth Aids Allocations, including initial county allocations, Emergency Funds, and Corrective Sanctions Reimbursements.

JUVENILE CORRECTIONAL INSTITUTION (JCI) PLACEMENTS

In 2010, the Division of Juvenile Corrections operated three JJCIs—Ethan Allen School and Lincoln Hills School for boys and Southern Oaks Girls School

In 2010, the Division of Juvenile Corrections:

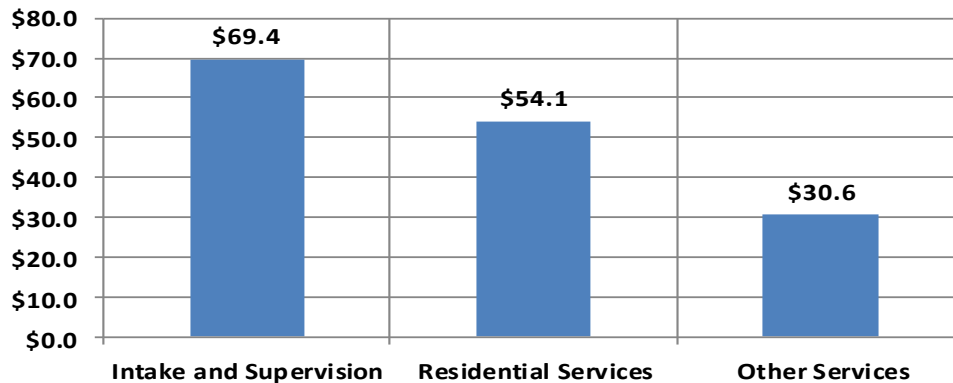

- Provided community supervision to 560 youth and billed $6.04 million for those services
- Provided community residential services for 234 youth and billed $5.72 million for those services
- Spent $339,142 on other support and supervision services, including intensive family-based supports, counseling, AODA treatment, and other services

County Juvenile Justice Services

County human service departments or county courts provide intake and dispositional services for youth referred to the juvenile justice system, including intake services, determining whether youth should be held in custody, providing counseling and other support services, and developing and monitoring supervision plans.

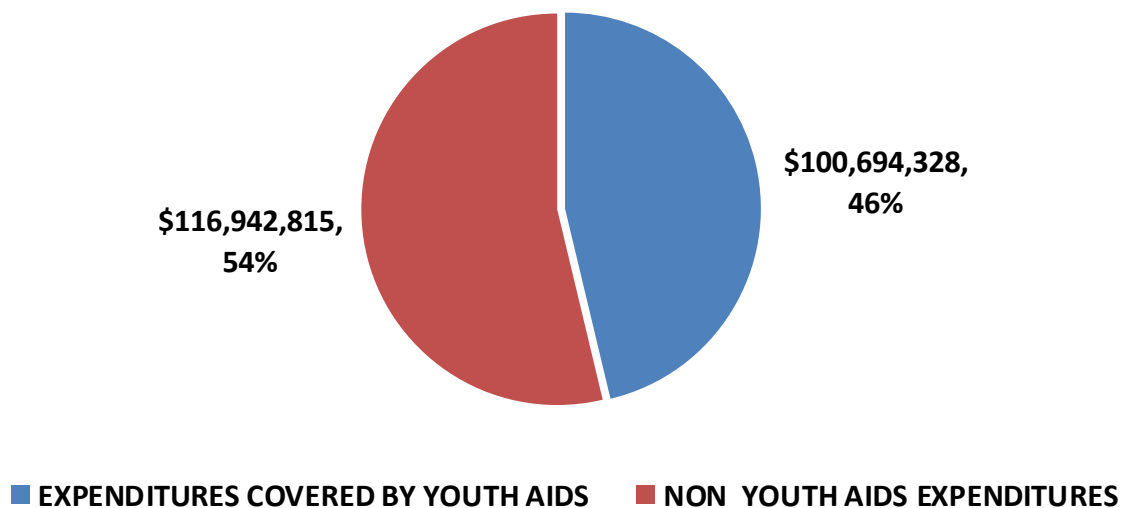

Categories of Expenditures (in Millions)*

* DOES NOT include costs for short-term detention services or Juvenile Corrections costs (for JCI, Supervision, services, or Placement costs)

Total amount expended by counties on Juvenile Justice Services in 2010 was approximately $217

Proportion of Reported JJ Expenditures Covered by Youth Aids
(Does not include short-term detention costs)

SOURCE

Department of Corrections/Division of Juvenile Corrections report on 2010 State and County Juvenile Justice Services as directed in 2011 Act 32. Refer to full report for information on how information was gathered/reported.

WCCF is responsible for the accuracy of calculations based on the report (7/2012)

For further information, contact:

Jim Moeser

Wisconsin Council on Children and Families
555 West Washington Avenue, Suite 200
Madison, WI 53703
608-284-0580, ext.316
jmoeser@wccf.org
www.wccf.org

